DETAILED ACTION

This Office Action is in response to Amendment filed 6/16/06.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kabasawa et al (U.S. Pat. 5,889,638).

Regarding claims 1 and 7, Kabasawa et al discloses an apparatus (figures 8-16) for converting a rotational movement to a linear movement, comprising:

a lead screw 11, and a slider (figure 8) having a first protrusion 36 and a second protrusion 39d, which are inserted into the groove of the lead screw 11, wherein the first protrusion 36 is adapted to substantially tightly fit into the groove of the lead screw whereby the rotational movement of the lead screw is converted into the linear movement of the slider; and wherein the second protrusion 39d is adapted to remain in the groove of the lead screw even if the first protrusion is moved out of the thread of the lead screw.

Regarding claims 2 and 8, Kabasawa et al discloses that the second protrusion is adapted not to contact the lead screw when the first protrusion is in a normal position (see figure 15).

Regarding claims 3 and 9, Kabasawa et al discloses that the first protrusion and the second protrusion are formed separately such that movement of the first protrusion along the radial direction of the lead screw does not cause the second protrusion to become separated from the screw groove of the lead screw (see figure 13).

Regarding claims 4 and 10, Kabasawa et al discloses that the slider further comprises a first extension portion 9b on which the first protrusion 36 is formed, and a second extension portion 39c on which the second protrusion 39d is formed (see figures 12-14).

Regarding claims 5 and 11, Kabasawa et al discloses that the second extension portion extends in a different direction from the first extension portion (see figures 12-13).

Regarding claims 6 and 12, Kabasawa et al discloses that a support portion adapted to support the second extension portion such that a designated minimum force is required to separate the second protrusion from the groove of the lead screw (see figure 12).

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 6/16/06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant asserts in page 8, lines 1-7:

“In the outstanding rejection, the Examiner asserts that the claimed first protrusion reads on element 36 of Kawabasa while the claimed second protrusion reads on element 39d of Kawabasa. However, what is notably missing from the rejection is any assertion that Kawabasa discloses element 36 and 39d as part of a slider; that Kawabasa discloses a slider having a first and second protrusion as required by the present claims.

Indeed, the rejection fails to list any element of Kawabasa that anticipates the “slider” of claim 1 and 7 and for that reason alone must be withdrawn.”

The Examiner respectfully draw attention to the fact that the head carriage (that slides in the radial direction of the disk) shown in figures 8 and 13 shows the protrusions 36 and 39d as part of the head carriage, therefore anticipating claims 1 and 7.

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
